BAKER-BISEL

Word has just been received that Roger Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Baker of Brand boulevard, and Blanche Bisel, of Tacoma, Washington, were united in marriage at the brides home, 202 F. street, Saturday evening, February 16. According to the report they spent a brief honeymoon in Seattle, and returned to the home of the brides parents in Tacoma, where Mrs. Baker will remain until Roger is mustered out of service, when they will come to Tropico to make their permanent home. Roger is now stationed at Camp Lewis where he has been since leaving Tropico on September 20. Roger has lived in Tropico for a number of years, and has a host of friends who wish him success and happiness.

JENSEN TO MAKE MOVIES SAFE FOR AUTOMOBILISTS

A plan to make the movies safe for automobilists has been completed by Mr. Robert Jensen, manager of the Palace Grand Theatre. The vacant lot immediately north of the Theatre will be converted into an auto park where motorists may safely leave their machines while attending the performance.

This novel plan was hit upon by Mr. Jensen following a series of automobile thefts which has kept the local police guessing. The new auto park will be arranged to acomodate a maximum number of machines and a system of checking will be introduced. An attendant will probably guard the machines. The park will be decorated, and will be lighted at night.

Work on the new project will commence as soon as the ground, which is now covered with wreckage from improvements in the Theatre, can be cleared.

With the erection of a $5,000 balcony within the Theatre, plans for a larger Theatre have been temporarily abandoned. Mr. Jensen declares that the demand for high class motion theatre and good films go well together, and Glendale is fortunate in having both.

The new balcony wil be completed pictures is on the increase. A fine in about three weeks.

SENTENCED FOR EIGHTEEN MONTHS

Felipe Cortez, the Portugese who was recently arrested on a charge of stealing garden hose, was convicted on three counts in the court of Judge Lowe and was sentenced to 18 months in the county jail. Cortez was arrested at two o'clock in the morning as he was making way with several coils of hose. He at first protested that he was a milk man. The officers who searched him found a gun and two knives on his person.

SNOWBALLS AND ORANGES MINGLE IN SHAM BATTLE

Windows and electric street lights suffered Monday when the youth of Glendale turned out for a "snow-balling" after the hailstorm which covered the ground with ice. Brand Boulevard light globes were struck by flying snowballs and pedestrians found themselves suddenly in "no-man's" land. In the surrounding citrus orchards, snowballs and ripe oranges were used as ammunition by the young warriors.

ETS STAMP OUT GERMAN LIES

Those of us who cannot give our rvices to the Army should do our rt by seeing to it that our soldiers e not subjected to a backfire of se- tious statements made by individ- ls in this country. We have almost dangerous an enemy to combat at me as we have across the seas. So r in our different communities we ve had comparatively few persons me out in open condemnation of sloyalty among their neighbors. erchants have hesitated to speak t, possibly because of the fear that eir German and pro-German custo- ers would be offended. Men in poli- s have perhaps feared political sadvantage. Professional men have ssibly feared the loss of clients. The ne has come, however, when every an and woman in the land must go record as a true patriot.

A part of that patriotism which our untry now demands of us all is that ery citizen must be particularly atchful for the insiduous influence hich finds its outlet through private nversations. The Government, one, cannot stop seditious literature and utterances; every citizen must do his or her share.

As the channels of print are rapidly closed to the German government's propagandist's in the United States, they are resorting more and more each day to the spreading of poison by word of mouth. The German agent pervades the land. In every community where he stops over night, German lies pervades the town next day.

Every loyal American who has the welfare of his country at heart will do well to aid in protecting it against the ceaceless circulation from tongue to tongue of baseless stories of disaster to American forces on their way to France, of plots that never were devised, of damage to military property that never occured.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

There is a vast difference between information and ideas, and the man of information may be useful like a dictionary, but may never be a force in the community.

Great men not only know their business, but they usually know that they know it, and are not only right in their main opinions, but they usually know that they are right in them.

If you desire not to be too poor, desire not to be too rich. He is rich, not who possesses much, but who covets no more, and he is poor, not who enjoys little, but he who wants too much.

He who thinks that he can find within his own breast that which may enable him to dispense with the whole world is much mistaken, but he who thinks that the world cannot do without him is still more mistaken.

WITH THE SCIENTISTS

Electric lights that can be used for signaling are included in policemen's helmets that have been invented in England.

A steel for safes that breaks the best bits and defies hydrogen-acetylene blow pipe flames has been perfected in Europe.

By treating young chickens with high frequency, high voltage currents of electricity a London experimenter has made them grow more rapidly.

A highly nutritious bread has been invented by a European scientist who replaces milk and eggs with beef blood, blanched, sterilized and deodorized with hydrogen peroxide, which itself is a substitute for yeast.

HOARDING FOOD

Anyone buying and holding a larger supply of food now than in peace time, except foods canned, dried or preserved, in the home, is helping to defeat the Food Administration in its attempt to secure a just division of food and the establishment of fair prices. The food hoarder is working against the common good and even against the very safety of the country. Hoarding food in households is both selfish and unnecessary. The government is protecting the supply of its people.

SOME POSTSCRIPTS

Japanese government experts are raising tobacco in Korea from American seed.

A wheel chair has been pattented that can be folded compactly for storage when idle.

Official figures show that the sewers of American cities are long enough to girdle the earth.

English scientists are experimenting with the production of artificial rubber from coke oven gasas.

Caddies are unnecessary for golf players who use a new holder for clubs that is mounted on wheels.

Two Seattle men have patented a machine that slices an entire loaf of bread as a tradle is pressed.

India is now raising cotton on 13,263,000 acres of land, an increase of about 7 per cent from last year.

An irrigation project nearing completion in the Hawaiian islands will pierce five mountain ranges and deliver 50,000,000 gallons of water daily to plantations.

Forks that carry spring scales to weigh their contents have been invented in sizes ranging from a dining table utensil to one large enough to handle hay or grain.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ON EQUAL STATUS

Under the heading "Christian Science in the Navy," the New York World on Tuesday printed the following editorial:

"The appointment by Secretary Daniels of a Christian Scientist as navy chaplain denotes a significant change in the public attitude toward the faith founded by Mrs. Eddy.

"Could such a selection of a spiritual advisor have been conceived of in Dewey's navy? Christian Science then and long after was anathema to the regular religious denominations of the country. Legislation was invoked to restrain it, medical societies prosecuted the pratitioners, and it was made to bear the brunt of a powerful opposition everywhere. Now the Government gives it full recognition and accords its readers an equal status with the ministers of other creeds. Besides the navy chaplain, there are two Christian Science chaplains in the army.

"So have the old antagonisms subsided and the earlier intolerance given way under the spirit of religious freedom. History has repeated itself once more, and the new kirk fought its way to a place alongside the old kirk. It has been an interesting process, and the outcome is notable as an illustration of the liberalizing tendencies of modern opinion, whether religious or political."

PACIFIC ELECTRIC RY. EXHIBIT AT ORANGE SHOW

Striking Exhibit Underway to Represent Railway at Big Exposition

The Pacific Electric Railway is building a striking exhibit for the Eighth National Orange Show, to be held in San Bernardino February 20 to 28.

In keeping with many other patriotic and war time features, including a court of Southern California's most beautiful girls who will represent the nation's allies, the Pacific Electric will have on a flat car a big naval gun mounted on a revolving turret. Every time the turret revolves the gun will "boom" and a flash will be seen. "Pacific Electric serves Uncle Sam as well as Southern California," will be shown on electric decoration.

Thousands of oranges will be used in the display. A miniature train winding in and out among oranges, will run about the base of the turret.

The Pacific Electric recognizes the Orange Show as one of the big attractions of Southern California and during the period of the exposition will handle many thousands of people direct to the exposition gates from all parts of the southland.

The Orange Show has already taken on such shape as to indicate that it will be equally as lavish in beauty and entertainment as in former years.

A Deacon's Deal

By John Boylan

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

There is an ancient idea still floating around that because a man is a church deacon he must take the small end of the bargain when he either buys or sells. If he trades horses he must take a blind one in exchange and be thankful that the equine has four legs to move about on.

If he makes cider to sell he must turn out the pure quill, whereas any one else is excused for a dilution of five pails of water to a barrel.

For about fifteen years Deacon Goodhue had been governed by the ancient idea, and had been looked upon as a man that would be a leader among the angels, but all of a sudden there came a change. He had been thinking things over, and when he killed an early fall pig he did not send the remains around among the nearest ten families, as had been his wont, and keep the ears and bristles for his portion. And hereupon the people exclaimed:

"Deacon Goodhue has surely backslid!"

"Within a month he'll be selling milk instead of giving it away."

"He can't develop such a spirit as this and expect to remain in the church!"

Deacon Goodhue dug thirty bushels of potatoes from his garden that fall, and instead of giving away twenty of them, and living on turnips after January, he stored every peck of them in his own cellar. Some folks said that the evil omen had surely got hold of him, and some almost excused his unheard and unwarranted conduct by saying that he was losing his mind.

Whatever it was, he kept right on springing his surprises. Brother Absalom Springtree had a sick cow. He asked a tin peddler to diagnose the case, and, after looking at her eyes and twisting her tail, the man looked

SEND YOUR FIELD GLASSES, SPY-GLASSES OR TELESCOPES TO WASHINGTON TO BE 'EYES' FOR THE FLEET

The Navy needs these "eyes" to derive the submarine of its sting and it has requested the California State Council of Defense to help it obtain them. Commissioning hundreds of new ships for naval service has created a demand for observation glasses far in excess of the present American output. The only way to insure an adequate supply while the manufacturers of lenses are speeding up production is by appealing to the patriotism of private owners.

The Government pays a nominal fee of $1,00 for each glass accepted and the donor is further rewarded by knowing that his patriotic contribution may be the means of saving thousands of troops in transport and also of saving much-needed shipping from destruction.

Old, scuffed telescopes or field glasses may possess first class lenses, so don't be chary about forwarding them regardless of appearance.

Ship direct by mail or express to Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. Tie a tag with your name and address to each instrument.

Famous Old Time Chateau.

The old chateau of Coucy, France, reduced to a pile of stones by the German destruction, dated from the thirteenth century. In the middle ages it was known as a masterpiece of military architecture. Viollet-le-Duc in 1856 was charged with the restoration of certain walls that threatened to crumble. The famous dungeon was unique in the whole world. The chateau, or, rather, one of its towers, formerly served as a prison for the malefactors who infested the neighboring forests. During the reign of Louis XIV. Cardinal Mazarin tried to demolish one of the walls of the chateau, forty feet in thickness, and failed.—New York Times.

Strained the Glass.

The oldest inhabitant of Little Cockleton possessed a telescope he never used.

"Why don't you make use of it sometimes, James?" asked a neighbor.

"It used to be a good 'n," said James sorrowfully, "but it's broke now."

"Broken?" asked the neighbor. "Who did that?"

"Well," said James, "it was such a good 'n that I could see the old church steeple five miles away quite plain, but Joseph, the scoundrel, got the lend of it and tried to make out the steeple of the Methody chapel more'n ten miles away. He tried and tried and couldn't, so that strained my glass, an' it's never been right since. Drat Joseph!"

Platinum Substitutes.

Since the development of "palau," the palladium-gold substitute for platinum, trials have been made with mixtures of these two metals in varying proportions. The alloy containing 60 to 90 per cent of gold is to be known as "rhotanium," and has a specific gravity of 16 to 18.5, is malleable and ductile and can be welded without flux or other agent. It proves entirely satisfactory for most chemical and electrical purposes for which platinum is used, though it is not suitable for use with hot concentrated nitric acid, nor for electrolytic anodes. For jewelry it is thought to be even superior to platinum, as it is harder and stronger and takes a better finish and it has practically the same color, can be worked as readily and does not tarnish or corrode.

RED CROSS NOTES

A bulletin has been received by the local branch from Los Angeles Chapter which states that all materials will be furnished free from February 5 to March 7, and that all material purchased by the local branch since February 5th will be credited back with the amount for which it has been charged for materials furnished.

The ladies of the Richardson Tract have been meeting at the members home and working on hospital garments. They have been doing splendid work, and the local branch is willing that if any one desires to they may take the work home and do it this way.

Mrs. Collage has been appointed to take charge of the ambulance pillow wark, and Mrs. Hibbert was appointed to take charge of the yarn.

Mrs. Jones, who has been the instructor of the sewing department of the Los Angeles headquarters, has taken an active interest in the Local Auxiliary, and has become one of the earnest workers of this branch.

While the Local Auxiliary is turning out a large amount of work, yet they can make use of more helpers. They say they can use more workers in all the departments. If there are any women in Tropico who can give some of their time to this work, they will do well to report to the local branch.

NATION MUST EAT MORE POTATOES

During the next five months potatoes must be be used more freely in American homes than ever before unless the nation, with its heavy burden of responsibility for food saving shall become guilty of blameable waste, the United States Food Administration for California has announced. Unfortunately last year's large potato crop was of poor quality in certain sections as taken from the fields. Early frosts killed the vines and left only small, immature, watery tubers in large areas, and hard freezes before harvesting severely injured tens of thousands of bushels.

Added to this condition is the fact that potato eaters changed their food habits last spring when these tubers became luxuries; and only the earnest and continuous cooperation of producers and distributors will restore the potato to its rightful place on the table of every household. All housewives in California are urged to serve potatoes each day.

A country worth fighting for is worth saving for. Buy Thrift Stamps.

RAIN AT LAST—PEOPLE REJOICE

Suddenly ending a drought which threatened crops and discouraged home-gardeners, Jupiter Pluvius visited Glendale Sunday, returning at intervals during the entire week. The ground, which has baked in the sun for nearly twelve months, greedily soaked up thousands of gallons of the precious water. Many ranchers started plowing after the first shower, and hundreds of acres have been tilled regardless of the drenching rain. Dozens of back yard gardeners took advantage of Washington's birthday to show their practical patriotism by planting their kitchen gardens.

ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual all-day meeting of the Glendale W. C. T. U. will be held Friday, March 1st, in the Church parlor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. It is the most important meeting of the year. All reports of the various departments are to be brought in, all annual dues must be paid and the Election of officers will be held. Lunch will be served in the banqueting hall. Bring sandwiches for two and one other article of food. Let every member try to be present.

GRUMBLING.

Grumbling is a potent cause of ill health. It keeps the sensitive nerves vibrating with discordant emotions and not only hurts the grumbler, but every one who hears it. It really weakens a person and prepares the system of the grumbler for an attack of any malady that happens to be prevalent.

NUMBER OF PAINT SHADES AND SIZES OF CONTAINERS REDUCED

The Council of National Defense makes the following announcement:

To conserve tin and linseed oil and other ingredients of paint that are necessary for carrying on the war, paint manufacturers now making in some cases as high as 100 shades of house paint will limit themselves after July 1 to 32 shades. They will also eliminate several sizes of containers. Recommendations to this effect have just been issued by the Commercial Economy Board of the Council of National Defense. The board consulted with practically all manufacturers and representative dealers in preparing the recommendations and is already assured of the cooperation of to 8 shades, floor paint to 8, roof and barn paint to 2, shingle stains to 12, oil colors to 30, carriage paint to 8, architectural varnishes to 4, and so on. In many cases this will mean a reduction of 50 per cent or more.

Half-gallon cans are to be discontinued altogether for both paint and varnishes, as are also all cans smaller than half pints. In several kinds of paints, pint containers are to be eliminated and all cans smaller than gallons in barn and roof paint and shingle stain are to be dropped. The reductions are expected to involve little inconvenience to consumers.

With the reduction in the number of kinds of paint and varnish and of the sizes of containers, dealers will be able to operate on smaller stocks, and this will mean the release of large quantities of materials and capital that would otherwise be tied up on the dealers' shelves.

The program represents the voluntary action of paint manufacturers and dealers in meeting a national problem presented to them by the board.

BLUE RIBBON FOR "BETTIE"

Miss Ellen Churchill and Miss Minnie Moulton of Blanche avenue, have returned from San Diego, where they were guests of Miss Moulton's sister at Hotel Coronado, and where they attended a fine bench show. Their Irish Setter, "Bettie", was entered and captured a blue ribbon. Last Saturday they entered her in a bench show at South Pasadena, given as a benefit for the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society of that city. There she secured second place, the blue going to a very fine dog, "Lomita Victress", who also won the President's Trophy for best dog in the show. With such competition the ladies feel that Bettie acquited herself very well. This week they will take her to the Orange Show at San Bernardino, possibly stopping enroute at the Mission Inn in Riverside.

Lime Water.

Lime water does not look unlike the ordinary fluid which comes from the faucet. It is mildly bitter in its taste and its properties are antiacid and astringent. It is because of this antiacid or alkaline property that it is given in milk or plain water when there is a tendency to sour stomach, nausea or vomiting. The sour or acid condition is corrected and a slightly tonic and soothing effect exerted.

Unless one has an opportunity to get pure, clean lime, it is a better to buy lime water than to try to make it, as it is very inexpensive. If, however, you wish to prepare it at home, take two teaspoonfuls of slaked lime and add to one pint of boiled or distilled water. Lime used for this purpose should be that prepared from marble or chalk rather than the common building lime.—Exchange.

"What was the matter?" her uncle asked the little lady later.

"Why, the clowns," she explained. "I could hardly keep from laughing at

EPIGRHYMES:

A cripple in both limbs was he; his body, strong, alert—pathetic incongruity—'twas hopelessness that hurt. He sought an eddy in the crowd upon the busy way; "PUT down YOUR Country's foes, you men," he heard the speaker say; "your BEST is none too good to give; don't budge one single FOOT from our brave pledge to help blot out oppression, branch and root." The cripple shuffled up the street; three men, new uniformed, just glanced at him, their pity that of Strength for the deformed. That night, grown morbid, this man saw in his sad plight, disgrace; then, in the morning sunlight flashed a Congreve thought! His face beamed radiance; and FOREMOST of that day's new volunteers he stood before an officer—and Somewhere there were cheers. "Of course I cannot fight," he said; "Don't let me be disgraced; Do let me give our Flag, my brains—I'm good—above the waist."

Inspiring in the extreme is the Mission Play, by John Steven McGroarty, which has opened its sixth season in its own playhouse, ideally situated in the shadow of the old mission at San Gabriel.

The story of the play is the recalling of the olden, golden days of California, covering periods from the landing of the first Spanish adventurers on the shores of San Diego Bay, through the years of the founding of the missions that extended along the King's Highway to Sonoma in the valley of the seven moons.

Daily incidents of the life around the missions is faithfully and colorfully portrayed, with native dances and songs adding to the impelling interest of the historical facts that have been incorporated in this remarkable pageant drama.

Norval MacGregor will this year be seen in the predominating role of Father Junipero Serra, founder of the missions, while Miss Rosamonde Joyzelle triumphs in the supporting character of Senora Josefa Yorba. Matinee preformances commencing at 2:15 will be presented daily, including Sundays.

ie and said:

"That 're cow has got a bad case of the holler-horn."

"Shoo! Will she die of it?"

"The chances are nine out of ten that she will."

"What had I better do about it?"

"Trade her off, and that without a day's delay. Don't you know of any one around here you can stick?"

"Um! Why, there is Deacon Goodhue?"

"Go for him!"

The cow was driven over to the deacon's. He stood a rod away and looked over and shook his head and replied:

"Bad case of the holler-horn."

"But you can cure it."

"I don't want to. Let her die on your hands!"

That reply went to the parson, and he was asked to entertain charges.

"Was there any cheating on the part of the deacon?" he asked.

"N-o-o, not skassly."

"Then what can he be charged with?"

"Why, refusing to do a neighborly act!"

"You believe in Moses, don't you?"

"Of course, parson."

"He was a good man?"

"A mighty good man."

"He was the owner of cows?"

"He was."

"Do you think he would trade a good cow for one with the hollow horn?"

The caller went away disgruntled, and the deacon kept right on being good to himself.

No deacon has ever been considered a good business man, and when it was known that Deacon Goodhue was branching out a little it was predicted that:

The eggs he sent to market would all addle.

That the butter would all turn frowny.

That the strawberries would turn sour, and that the calfskins would be a losing venture.

They went to the parson again, and after he had heard the story he replied:

"Oh, I don't know."

"But you will surely talk to him?"

"Oh, yes. I will tell him that I wished more men of the world attended my church!"

"Parson Stebbins!" was gasped.

"In which event my salary, poor as it is, would not be from five to six months behind!"

Deacon Goodhue was like a dramatist. He worked up to a climax. Perhaps it was because he was not a business man that he got a hint that a railroad was coming to town, and that the site of the depot and a repair shop would just cover what was the town graveyard. There had been talk for years about abandoning the old site for one better located, and the deacon's offer for the land was thought a liberal one. Under a state law, however, if a single objection was filed no move could be made for a certain length of time.

The widow Raymond had filed an objection. She had lost her husband some five years before, and to put it in her words when the deacon called on her:

"There is to be a jedgment day, isn't there?"

"Yes, they say so."

"Gabriel will blow his horn?"

"I expect he will."

"And the quick and the dead will rise up?"

"Yes."

"Deacon Goodhue, how far is it from this to the town of Guilford?"

"Just seven miles, widder."

"And a straight road?"

"There hain't a bend in it."

"Well, everybody in this village knows that my Peter used to start for Guilford every Saturday for years and years."

"He did, widder—he did."

"And everybody also knows that he got lost as regularly as he started, and it took two days to find him."

"Two days, widder, and sometimes three."

"When Gabriel blows that horn ain't there goin' to be such a bustlin' and hustlin' as this world has never seen?"

"Quite likely."

"Peter will be among 'em. When he pops out of his grave he'll take a look around, and if he sees the same old landmarks he'll hustle straight for the golden gates. If he's been dug up and buried in a strange spot it'll be like goin' to Guilford over again, and the gates will be shet agin him. No, I want to give Peter a fair show with the rest of 'em, and I shan't withdraw my protest."

Did the deacon argue the point?

Not a bit of it.

Did he offer a whopping big price, and thereby arouse the widow's cupidity, and start her making inquiries?

Not at all. He just went home and sat down and thought aloud:

"When a widder woman is a widder woman what does she want most on this earth?

"When a widder woman has to make her own garden, milk her cow, feed her hogs, take care of the chickens, split the wood, shovel snow and build her own fires what does she most sigh for?"

"For a man, of course," he answered himself—"any fool knows that!"

The deacon set out with horse and buggy and rode over most of the country. He finally found the man he was looking for, and accosted him with:

"Do you want to marry a widder woman with about $3,000?"

"You bet your hat I do!" was the ready reply.

It did not take over half an hour to settle the details, but the deacon thought best to wait ten days longer before calling on the widow Raymond again. She met him with a smile and said:

"Deacon, I am ready to withdraw my protest."

"Has something happened, widder?" he innocently queried.

"I am going to marry a man named Rogers."

"You don't say!"

"Yep. No more single blessedness for me."

"But about Peter when the horn blows?"

"Oh, as to that I've been thinkin'. If Peter, when the jedgment day comes, can't keep up with the scramble, he must put up with the best he can do!"

And when the villagers heard that the deacon had made a clear $15,000 by securing a husband for the widow and selling the property to the railroads, they went to the parson again.

"As I take it," he replied, "the widow couldn't look around, and so the deacon did it for her."

"But he made $15,000."

"And out of it he has paid up my back salary, and is going to repaint the meeting house and provide it with a spire and pew cushions. The deacon's all right."
